

Hilles Tells Plans of Republicans In Presidential Fight

National Committee To Meet December 14 In Washington To Choose Place for the Next Convention

PARTY WILL SHOW UP THE DEMOCRATS

New York, Oct. 29. (By United Press)—The Republican National committee will meet in Washington December 14 to select convention city and begin mobilization for 1916. Chairman Charles D. Hilles made this announcement today and indicated the main lines along which the campaign to restore the Republican party to power will be held. They are:

First—An attack on the Democratic tariff policy.

Second—Criticism of the Wilson administration's handling of foreign affairs, both in Mexico and Europe.

Third—Charges that democracy has failed to keep its promise of an economical administration and has failed to keep their 1912 platform pledges including the declaration in favor of a single term for the President.

Fourth—Attacks on the administration's government ship bill and other administration measures.

"By the time the National committee assembled, the presidential campaign of the numerous candidates for Republican nomination should be well under way," Hilles said.

PLANS FOR PROMOTION OF DAIRY INDUSTRY DISCUSSED

F. B. Webb Discusses Practical Working of Plans With Chamber of Commerce

It will be remembered that in June, during the visit in Clearfield of W. C. Byers a representative of the agricultural bureau of the N. Y. C. R. R. Co., it was announced that plans were being formulated to increase the dairy industry and stock raising in Clearfield county. It is known to be a business that will bring great wealth to the county. Officers of the chamber of commerce took Mr. Byers through nearby farming districts to show the advantages of the Clearfield hills for stock raising.

Following out these lines, Frederick B. Webb, agriculturist of the railroad company, was in Clearfield yesterday in conference with the chamber of commerce relative to a practical working plan which has been devised to bring about the desired result. It is believed that the plan as now perfected will bring Clearfield county's dairy industry up to a point where we will have a sufficient milk supply to warrant establishing condensaries through this section during the next three or four years. Details of the plan will be announced by an article which will appear in the Progress the first week in November. From the very start, it will bring considerable cash revenue to Clearfield county farmers. Local business men and farmers who conferred with Mr. Webb and Mr. Redline yesterday, were well pleased with this effort to establish a substantial and permanent business in Clearfield county, one that will help both the country districts and the towns.

OREGON TEAM TO PLAY IN MICHIGAN.

Lansing, Oct. 29.—To demonstrate their belief that the brand of football played in the far Northwest is fully up to the standard set by the large Eastern colleges, the eleven of the Oregon Agricultural College has travelled three-quarters of the distance across the continent to do battle on the gridiron here tomorrow against the team of Michigan Agricultural College. The two teams are regarded as among the strongest in their respective sections of the country. The Oregon "Aggies" went through last season without a defeat. The Michigan team is one of the strongest in the Middle West, having defeated the University of Michigan, two years ago and losing to them last season by a mere margin of three points. The journey of the Oregon eleven from Corvallis to Lansing is the longest Eastern football trip ever taken by any Pacific coast team.

DAN EMMETT CENTENARY OBSERVED.

Mount Vernon, O., Oct. 29.—The grave of Dan Emmett, in the Mount Vernon cemetery, was decorated with a wreath of flowers today to commemorate the centennial anniversary of the birth of the composer of the famous song, "Old Dan Tucker." After his discharge he travelled with circus players until the early '40s, when he helped to organize the first minstrel band, called the "Virginia Minstrels." Emmett remained in the minstrel business during the greater part of his life. His last professional engagement was with Al Fields' minstrels, and his last appearance on any stage was at Ironton, O., April 11, 1896. He then returned to his old home in Mount Vernon and died here, June 28, 1904.

Teutons and Russians claimed East Prussian victories. Russia claimed the Germans were retreating in Poland. Americans there cabled that hungry Belgians throughout the country were expected to attack the authorities.

HIGH SCHOOL MASQUERADE PARTY A GREAT SUCCESS

Fantastic and Picturesque Costumes Showed Artistic Temperament

The high school masquerade last night which was given by the seniors for the benefit of the Athletic Association was a great success, both socially and financially and those present saying that it was the best ever given in the high school building. The one act farce which the seniors presented kept the students in a state of hilarity during the whole evening and the boys quartette composed of David Ferguson, Albert Kennard, Malcolm Cox and Harold Knight sang several beautiful selections which were immensely enjoyed.

The costumes worn were both fantastic and picturesque and showed the artistic temperament of the students, who went to much trouble in securing them in order that they might conceal their identity. The party broke up at eleven o'clock, and all returned to their home feeling that they had spent a most enjoyable evening.

FOOTBALL WARRIORS GIVEN GRAND SEND-OFF BY STUDENTS

Team Leaves For State College In Best of Spirits Today

Coach Reading's Men leave Determined to Defeat Their Center County Rivals Tomorrow—DuBois Game Next Saturday.

The High school football team was given a grand send off this afternoon when they left on the one o'clock train for State College where they will meet their Center county opponents on the gridiron tomorrow afternoon. About 50 students gathered at the corner of Third and Market streets at one o'clock and under the leadership of cheer leaders Howard Stewart and Melvin Neff gave one of the best exhibitions of cheering and singing ever witnessed in Clearfield.

A large crowd of townspeople gathered around the corner to listen to the cheering which brought back pleasant memories of college days to many of those whose school days are over. The team left in the best of spirits and determined to down their rivals, knowing that their school mates are relying on them to raise the glory of the Red and Black in the athletic world.

The team is in the best of condition, three of the players who were barred from last Saturday's game on account of their scholastic standing being eligible. Two of the first string men are still barred on account of marks but are doing their best to get their average up in time for the DuBois game which will take place next Saturday. The students are trying to arrange for a special train for the DuBois game so they will be able to make the round trip in one day. If they succeed there will be about 200 Clearfield rooters in DuBois to help the team defeat their old athletic rivals.

SERBIA DOOMED AS STEAM-ROLLER OF GERMANS MOVES

Little Nation Will be a Sacrifice To Bungling of Diplomats in Bulgarian Crisis

Drive on Constantinople Menacing Entire Operation of Allies on Gallipoli Peninsula.

Paris, Oct. 29. (By United Press)—Serbia seemed to be doomed today. The Austro-German-Bulgarian invasion progressed remorselessly. The allies were preparing a tremendous attempt to stop the teutonic forces short of Constantinople, but indications were that the fighting would be in Bulgaria or Turkey. This meant steam roller would pass completely over Serbia.

Today 150,000 French and 13,000 British were at Salonika or north of there. A Russian landing in the Bulgarian Black sea coast believed imminent. German military supplies for the Turks were reported already moving overland through northeastern Serbia into Bulgaria toward the nearest railway connection with Constantinople. It was estimated the supplies would reach the soldiers early next week. Prospects also were that the invaders would control the Belgrade-Constantinople railway soon clear across Serbia. It was recognized that this meant a great cleaning up of shipments to the Turks. The prediction was made that the Serbians would soon split into small bands and resort to guerrilla warfare.

Berlin, Oct. 29.—Serbian opposition to German Austrian and Bulgarian invasion was collapsing fast today. The Austro-German main drive through the Morava valley, into an official statement, was advancing west of the Lapova railroad station along the high road to the Kragujevac.

WHAT THEIR VOTES HAVE ACCOMPLISHED.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 29.—(By United Press).—"What women's votes have done and can do to better conditions in Illinois," was expected to be the principal subject for discussion by delegates to the state convention of the Illinois Equal Suffrage Association here today. All sorts of politicians have been invited to attend and tell the women what they think about suffrage.

The raising of a "liberty fund," for the purpose of gaining full suffrage for the women of Illinois will be proposed. The plan is to start getting money now so when the campaign for constitutional amendment, either through a constitutional convention or by direct amendment passed by the legislature, is at hand, the state suffrage association will be financially prepared to carry it through to a successful conclusion. Experience in other states where the campaign for the ballot has suffered through lack of funds has led the officials of the Illinois association to this forehanded move.

I. C. C. RULES AGAINST TRAVELING AS "LIVESTOCK"

State College, Oct. 29.—Plans of Penn State students to travel as "livestock" to the big football games to be played by the Blue and White on foreign fields have been rudely shattered by the Interstate Commerce Commission. It was ruled that despite the willingness of the students to travel in special express cars bedded down with straw, it was illegal for railroads to transport human beings under the special classification of "livestock." The students hoped to see the Harvard game next Saturday at a cost of about $7 for railroad fare, whereas the journey in Pullmans would tax them $25.

COMPANION ESCAPES A SIMILAR FATE

El Paso, Texas, Oct. 29.—(By United Press)—Charles Boone, an American cattleman of El Paso, was taken from a Mexican northwestern train at Guzman, Chihuahua, Mexico and shot to death. Boone's partner, James Welch, witnessed the murder and arrived here with the story early today. Welch said that Col. Hernandez, head of the Villa government, Guzman had Boone executed by a firing squad without trial and presumably in retaliation for Carranza's recognition by the United States government.

Hernandez was said to have searched the train for other Americans threatening to kill any more to be found. Welch said he escaped by hiding in the locomotive with the American engine men. They confirmed Welch's story.

TREASURES IN VAULTS TO SAVE THEM FROM ZEPPELINS.

(By U. P. Staff Correspondent.) London, Oct. 6.—(By Mail).—Elaborate precautions against damage by Zeppelins to priceless treasures in the British museum have been taken.

The Elgin room, containing the great Elgin marbles, is closed to the public and the pedimental sculptures of the Parthenon have been removed to a strong room, specially constructed, in the basement. The Parthenon frieze, affixed to the walls, has been elaborately protected with sandbags. The noted Portland vase, the Rosetta stone and many other relics which can not be replaced, now repose in safety in the vaults of the great building.

The great lights that once shone brightly in the interior and exterior of the museum have been dimmed to a point where the building more properly resembles a gigantic tomb.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 27.—(By United Press).—May a school boy attend classes in summer without a collar and in winter sit muffled in a sweater if he chooses, or has a teacher the authority to dictate the attire of the pupils? FRIDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 29, 1916

When a man has two dressed pigs on his conscience, the night of a pork chop is mighty apt to give him anything but an appetite.

If every Republican voter does his full duty next Tuesday, this county will be strictly in line for the Republican landslide scheduled for 1916.

The youthful new green dress of the Y. M. C. A. building is not quite satisfying to the eye, but it is decidedly an improvement over the former soiled drab.

We predict that Bowman's "Safety First" platform is going to be a boomerang. Quite a few voters believe in "safety first" and will therefore scratch Bowman.

Whatever the result, the vote for the suffrage amendment will reflect accurately the degree of enlightenment to which the people of Pennsylvania have attained. With machine politics and booze money out of sight, opposition to the amendment would be nil.

Most of the masculine opponents of suffrage argue the question in a circle. They go after it this way: "The women have never had the vote, and have been reasonably happy. Why the necessity of giving it to them now?" If the world depended upon that sort of progressive reasoning, we'd go backward so fast that the sun would soon rise out of the west.

PACIFISM AND PREPAREDNESS

As it is possible for alarmists to push our new and reasonable policy of "preparedness" in the direction of an undesirable extravagance, it is well for opponents of proposition to speak out, and certainly they have a right to be heard. But they should offer reason and common sense in lieu of idealistic dreams. Some of the "pacifists," including William Jennings Bryan, seem to show a total lack of appreciation of actual conditions and of the practical difficulties confronting their easy but hazardous scheme of waiting to prepare until war is at hand.

Mr. Bryan, for example, has confidently asserted that in the hour of need a million Americans would "spring to arms" in a day, forgetting that even so commendable an acrobatic feat would be virtually useless if there were no arms to "spring" to, or if the available arms failed to match those of the aggressor. Repeating an argument full of weak spots in the Commoner, he says: "It is not a question of defense—this country will defend itself if it is ever attacked—and if that time ever comes the common people will furnish the soldiers; those who fight when the country needs fighters and work when the country needs workers." We may readily grant that a desire to serve will not be lacking when the hour of need arrives, but even the "common people" will be practically helpless if there is lack of the right sort of guns, warships, and trained officers to lead and direct in the fighting. Without these, and confronted with a highly equipped and trained enemy, even the patriotic and brave might lose heart and, as in unprepared England, a Lusitania tragedy or the execution of a Miss Cavell might be necessary to stimulate volunteering. The history of the past fifteen months shows that the mere numbers and undeveloped military powers of a nation are a poor reliance in a great crisis.

As if realizing the weakness of their arguments when examined in the light of stubborn facts and startling conditions, the pacifists have been driven to seek support in the charge that the Navy league, for example, has been subsidized by the makers of armor plate. This is nothing but the old policy, so familiar in American politics of accusing your opponent of being bribed after finding it too difficult to show that his positions are those of a fool. For many months it has been asserted that the friends of the Allies in this country have been bribed from London and that the supporters of the German cause were financed from Berlin. Apparently it is no less inevitable that the advocates of national defense should meet the ridiculous charge of being bought by munition manufacturers, but such a last resort implies that the arguments of the pacifists are breaking down by rude contact with hard, immovable realities.

A wail of sorrow and discouragement is about the only refuse left the extreme pacifist, for the American people have been convinced that to make effective soldiers out of raw recruits is not now the simple matter it was in the less scientific past, that a nation called to war must have adequate modern equipment as well as a trained army, and that to build a great navy and create a serviceable army is not to plunge into abhorred militarism but merely to take prudent steps toward effective national defense.

Today's Geographic Study of the Great European War Zone

"These stirring military times will prove a liberal education to one of the most conservative of peoples, Russia's northern Finns—those of the provinces of the lake and forest districts neighboring Finland power—who have persisted in a stubborn doubting of civilization since Peter the Great built Russia's European window, Petrograd, to let its light in upon them," says a war primer just issued by the National Geographic Society, which gives a sketch of the religious beliefs of these taciturn hunters, trappers and fishermen. The statement continues:

"The foremost scepticism of these wilderness-dwellers is that of Christianity, which came to them through the Russians. Not that they are averse to the doctrines of the Orthodox Church, but, being an unimaginative, practical people, one bad harvest or meagre hunting season works more disastrously upon their faith than all the writings of the philosophers would ever do. Nominally, these northern Finns are Christians and Orthodox. In reality, most of them are practical opportunists in matters of belief.

"The old religion of the Finns, like the people themselves, was thoroughly practical, prosaic, frankly utilitarian. The superior powers in the world existed merely so that their people, the Finns, might convince them with argument or cajolery to make harvest plentiful and hunting good.

"Although Russian civilization has spread its influence through their lands, the old Finnish belief survives on in the fold of the Orthodox Church in its ancient characteristic of blunt, unvarnished utilitarianism. The Finn prays for good harvests, large catches, plentiful game, increase for his herds. He tells God in straightforward, unadorned, childlike phrases when he wants his grain to ripen or that his herd is about to increase and, therefore, needs special attention. He complains to God in the same confiding way when his taxes seem too heavy or when his property is stolen. He is not given to the transports of mysticism, nor to the tenacious or precise about articles of creed.

"He is concerned about averting the attentions of evil spirits and about discouraging unwelcome visits from his dead. So, although a Christian, he places food upon the new-made grave and exhorts its occupant to stay away.

"These northern Finns made no difficulty about accepting Christianity. When harvests failed, or other misfortunes overtook them, the naturally applied to the God of the Russians for assistance, and of convinced that He was the most potent, abandoned the old gods without regret. The following specimen prayer of a northern Christian Finn, addressed to the favorite Russian saint, St. Nicholas, illustrates his position.

"Look here, Nicholas-god! Perhaps my neighbor, little Michael, has been slandering me to you, or perhaps he will do so. If he does, don't believe him. I have done him no ill, and wish him none. He is a worthless boaster and a babble. He does not really honor you, and merely plays the hypocrite. But I honor you from my heart; and, behold, I place a taper before you."

New York, Oct. 29.—Tomorrow's football schedule, taken as a whole, is a rather drab looking affair. It is, however, the lull before the storm that will break the following week when Yale and Princeton start the first game of the famous "Big Three."

The most exciting game tomorrow should be the Yale-Colgate game at New Haven, Yale, with McGraw gone, doesn't look like the Yale teams of old, despite the frantic efforts of the Blue mentors to whip a squad in shape that will preserve Yale prestige. In Colgate, Coach Larry Bankart has a scrappy, aggressive eleven which made its best showing of the season two weeks ago by administering a neat drubbing to the Army, 13 to 0. The quarrel at New Haven may turn out to be a real one unless Frank Hinkley has accomplished more with the Elis in the last two weeks than appears on the surface.

Harvard should not, on past performances, have a great deal of trouble with Penn State, although the State College athletes have not lost a game this season and number among their victims Pennsylvania. The recent discovery that there are as many points in Capt. Eddie Mahan's toe as there were in Charley Brinkley's has on the Crimson an enviable position in the dope sheet. Penn State to be a little weak on the defense which will be fatal to her against the smashing backs of Percy Haughton.

Princeton will play a practice game with Williams, or should, if Speedy Rush's proteges continue to set the pace they have for the last fortnight. Williams is deplorably weak this season.

Cornell also has what should be a practice game with Virginia Tech.—not the Virginia that licked Yale. Dartmouth should have a little trouble disposing of Amherst, and Uncle Sam's—wins the Army and Navy—also have easy games in Villanova and Bucknell.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old, famous Sage Tea Recipe are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally, and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray, faded, dry, scraggly and thin are a surprise awaiting them after one or two applications. Their hair vanishes and your locks are radiant dark and beautiful. It dandruff goes, scalp itching and hair stops.

That's the age of youth. Gray-haired, attractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with the Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

Chicago has defeated Indiana's warriors 13 times in 14 years. To tackle the Maroons years after year, only to lose, shows that the Hoosiers are a game lot at least.

Johnny Evers, captain of the Braves, picked the Phillies to win the world's series, while his team-mate, "Rabbit" Maranville, pulled for the Red Sox to win the big series.

When the A. A. U. moguls gather in annual council in New York next month another attempt will be made to gain permission for women to swim in sanctioned competitions.

Alleged stalling in bouts and failure to keep engagements have put Ad Wolgast, Johnny Kilbane and other prominent boxers in bad with the Wisconsin boxing commission.

Fashion Hints By Margaret Mason

BY MARGARET MASON.
(Written For The United Press.)

Since Mrs. Galt
Has called a halt
On Paris modes awhile,
We now will go
By B. & O
To Baltimore for style.

New York, Oct. 29.—Baltimore is a fine place for flocks and oysters.

Like the succulent bivalves, the models turned out by the dressmakers of the Maryland city are apt to be either much shirred or scalloped.

None of the sartorial efforts have been panned, however, although pan-ners are much in evidence on many.

Although the suit and afternoon gowns ordered at Baltimore by Mrs.
Edith Bolling Galt, the prospective first lady of the land, are two of "Bolling green" and one of seal brown, it is a safe bet that her Baltimore trossseau will not be complete without one frock of oyster white.

Mrs. Galt has evinced a preference for Georgette crepe since her green and brown afternoon gowns are combinations of this soft, clinging material with either taffeta or chiffon.

Her blouses also are crepe Georgette, and indeed not only the first but every lady of the land seems to have a penchant for this fabric. It is being utilized every place and for everything where once the chiffon reigned supreme.

There is hardly an afternoon model for the season that does not show transparent sleeves of the crepe Georgette; and particularly in the wide bell sleeves banded in fur is this fabric charming.

It has even crept closer to feminine hearts as airy fashioned under-garments, and as nighties, chemises, petticoats, Princess slips and combinations it adapts itself enchanting-ly.

While on the delicate subject of Georgette underwear I want to describe with bated breath a sensational set of intimate garments on display in a Fifth Avenue shop window. The complete set consisted of a chemise of very wide and very cowebby black net lace hung straight from shoulder straps of inch wide black satin ribbon, a pair of long lace pantalets on a black ribbon band, a brassiere of black satin ribbon and lace; and a petticoat, in case the weather should be chill, is permissible to be held in reserve.

It is like the chemise, just a full fall of this wide lace gathered on a black satin ribbon around the waist.
This shop window of inky, slinky garments comes in for a good share of black looks.

Indeed, to keep it dark seems about the best thing to do with this modern lingerie set of ebony hue.

This same shop is offering another sensation in the shape of high velvet shoes buttoned with little filigree ball buttons of gilt. One pair is of burnt orange velvet and the pair of silk hose to match has a cunning little fat Chinaman embroidered on the ankle.

Burnt orange, by the way, is a very popular color for seasonable evening gowns. Wondrous velvet ones of burnt orange are heavily embroidered in silver and combined with silver lace. Dark fur bandings are also stunning combined with the burnt velvet. Gorgeous evening mantles of this combination are as effective as any of the other vivid velvets not shown in the voluminous garments.

I glimpsed a petite brunette actress succeeding in exploiting the burnt orange coloring on Fifth Avenue one warm day last week. She was without a wrap and her full short skirted dress was of orange and olive green figured chiffon mace with a tightboned bodice laced with an orange cord over a guimpe of burnt orange crepe Georgette with full bell sleeves.

With this she wore high buttoned shoes of olive green kid. It was a case of a pair of green kids, but no trio, if you please.

I wonder if this outfit came from Baltimore.

SERBIAN NATIONAL HYMN.

God of Justice! Thou, have saved us

When in deepest bondage
cast,

Hear Thy Serbian children's voices,

Be our help as in the past.

With Thy mighty hand sustain us,

Still our rugged pathway
trace;

God, our Hope, protect and cherish

Serbian crown and Serbian
race!

Bind in closest links our kindred,

Teach the love that will not fail.

May the loathed field of discord

Never in our ranks prevail,

Let the golden fruits of union
Our young tree of freedom

grace;

God, our Master, guide and prosper

Serbian crown and Serbian
race!

On our sepulchre of ages
Breaks the resurrection

mon,

From the slough of direst slavery

Serbia anew is born

Through five hundred years of duance

We have knelt before Thy face,

All our kin, O God, deliver!

Thus entreats the Serbian

75TH BIRTHDAY FOR "PRIVATE JOE"

Bloomington, Oct. 28.—Joseph W.
Fifer, famed as "Private Joe" and governor of Illinois for two terms, received many congratulations at his home here today on the occasion of his seventy-fifth birthday. Governor Fifer was born in Staunton, Va., October 26, 1840. His father, who was a stone and brick mason, moved to this county in 1857 when he purchased land which Joseph helped him to improve, assisting also in the manufacturing and laying of brick.

In 1861 he enlisted as a private in the 23rd Illinois Infantry, and in the assault on Jackson Miss., in 1862, a mine ball passed entirely through his body. After the war he entered Illinois Wesleyan University and graduated in 1868. The following year he was admitted to the bar and in 1871 was elected corporation counsel of Bloomington. Later he served four years in the state senate and in 1888 was elected to the governor-ship on the Republican ticket.

The Stuff that makes the motors go

When weather forecasts say "colder," watch out for rising barometer of gas consumption. That is, unless you use Atlantic Gasoline. It will give you practically the same number of miles per gallon as you got last August.

This is the gas to feed in all weathers. Its qualities are regulated so as to insure instant carburetion at low temperatures.

ATLANTIC GASOLINE

Atlantic Gasoline is made from the finest crude oil that flows. It's clean as filtered water. It leaves a minimum of carbon. It saves you expensive carburetor troubles, because carburetors on a steady diet of Atlantic Gas seldom need adjusting. Every gallon is exactly like the last—its uniform "boiling point" is a definite standard.

Be sure you say Atlantic Gasoline—it puts pep in your motor. All good garages sell Atlantic Gasoline and Atlantic trucks and tanks deliver any quantity, anywhere, any time.

POLARINE keeps upkeep down

Atlantic Polarine will feed at zero weather as freely as at high temperatures. It keeps cylinder walls covered with a film of oil—they don't get parched when you use Polarine.

Hilles Tells Plans of Republicans In Presidential Fight

National Committee To Meet December 14 In Washington To Choose Place for the Next Convention

PARTY WILL SHOW UP THE DEMOCRATS

New York, Oct. 29. (By United Press)—The Republican National committee will meet in Washington December 14 to select convention city and begin mobilization for 1916. Chairman Charles D. Hilles made this announcement today and indicated the main lines along which the campaign to restore the Republican party to power will be held. They are:

First—An attack on the Democratic tariff policy.

Second—Criticism of the Wilson administration's handling of foreign affairs, both in Mexico and Europe.

Third—Charges that democracy has failed to keep its promise of an economical administration and has failed to keep their 1912 platform pledges including the declaration in favor of a single term for the President.

Fourth—Attacks on the administration's government ship bill and other administration measures.

"By the time the National committee assembled, the presidential campaign of the numerous candidates for Republican nomination should be well under way," Hilles said.

PLANS FOR PROMOTION OF DAIRY INDUSTRY DISCUSSED

F. B. Webb Discusses Practical Working of Plans With Chamber of Commerce

It will be remembered that in June, during the visit in Clearfield of W. C. Byers a representative of the agricultural bureau of the N. Y. C. R. R. Co., it was announced that plans were being formulated to increase the dairy industry and stock raising in Clearfield county. It is known to be a business that will bring great wealth to the county. Officers of the chamber of commerce took Mr. Byers through nearby farming districts to show the advantages of the Clearfield hills for stock raising.

Following out these lines, Frederick B. Webb, agriculturist of the railroad company, was in Clearfield yesterday in conference with the chamber of commerce relative to a practical working plan which has been devised to bring about the desired result. It is believed that the plan as now perfected will bring Clearfield county's dairy industry up to a point where we will have a sufficient milk supply to warrant establishing condensaries through this section during the next three or four years. Details of the plan will be announced by an article which will appear in the Progress the first week in November. From the very start, it will bring considerable cash revenue to Clearfield county farmers. Local business men and farmers who conferred with Mr. Webb and Mr. Redline yesterday, were well pleased with this effort to establish a substantial and permanent business in Clearfield county, one that will help both the country districts and the towns.

Repulse of all German attacks, capture of German trenches between the Aisne and Argonne on advances between Moselle and the Vosges, were France's claims.

Progress south of Nieuport, west of Lille and southwest of Verdun and sinking of the Russian cruiser Jemichug and a French destroyer by the Ender in Penang Harbor under the Japanese flag, were Germany's claims.

Teutons and Russians claimed East Prussian victories. Russia claimed the Germans were retreating in Poland. Americans there cabled that hungry Belgians throughout the country were expected to attack the authorities.

HIGH SCHOOL MASQUERADE PARTY A GREAT SUCCESS

Fantastic and Picturesque Costumes Showed Artistic Temperament

The high school masquerade last night which was given by the seniors for the benefit of the Athletic association was a great success, both socially and financially and those present saying, that it was the best ever given in the high school building. The one act farce which the seniors presented kept the students in a state of hilarity during the whole evening and the boys quartette composed of David Ferguson, Albert Kennard, Malcolm Cox and Harold Knight sang several beautiful selections which were immensely enjoyed.

The costumes worn were both fantastic and picturesque and showed the artistic temperament of the students, who went to much trouble in securing them in order that they might conceal their identity. The party broke up at eleven o'clock, and all returned to their home feeling that they had spent a most enjoyable evening.

MRS. J. S. HILLS ENTERTAINS SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

Drive on Constantinople Menacing Entire Operation of Allies on Gallipoli Peninsula.

Paris, Oct. 29. (By United Press).—Serbia seemed to be doomed today. The Austro-German-Bulgarian invasion progressed remorselessly. The allies were preparing a tremendous attempt to stop the teutonic forces short of Constantinople, but indications were that the fighting would be in Bulgaria or Turkey. This meant steam roller would pass completely over Serbia.

Today 150,000 French and 13,000 British were at Salonika or north of there. A Russian landing in the Bulgarian Black sea coast believed imminent. German military supplies for the Turks were reported already moving overland through northeastern Serbia into Bulgaria toward the nearest railway connection with Constantinople. It was estimated the supplies would reach the soldiers early next week. Prospects also were that the invaders would control the Belgrade-Constantinople railway soon clear across Serbia. It was recognized that this meant a great cleaning up of shipments to the Turks. The prediction was made that the Serbians would soon split into small bands and resort to guerrilla warfare.

FOOTBALL WARRIORS GIVEN GRAND SEND-OFF BY STUDENTS

Team Leaves For State College In Best of Spirits Today

Coach Reading's Men leave Determined to Defeat Their Center County Rivals Tomorrow—DuBois Game Next Saturday.

The High school football team was given a grand send off this afternoon when they left on the one o'clock train for State College where they will meet their Center county opponents on the gridiron tomorrow afternoon. About 50 students gathered at the corner of Third and Market streets at one o'clock and under the leadership of cheer leaders Howard Stewart and Melvin Neff gave one of the best exhibitions of cheering and singing ever witnessed in Clearfield.

A large crowd of townspeople gathered around the corner to listen to the cheering which brought back pleasant memories of college days to many of those whose school days are over. The team left in the best of spirits and determined to down their rivals, knowing that their school mates are relying on them to raise the glory of the Red and Black in the athletic world.

The team is in the best of condition, three of the players who were barred from last Saturday's game on account of their scholastic standing being eligible. Two of the first string men are still barred on account of marks but are doing their best to get their average up in time for the DuBois game which will take place next Saturday. The students are trying to arrange for a special train for the DuBois game so they will be able to make the round trip in one day. If they succeed there will be about 200 Clearfield rooters in DuBois to help the team defeat their old athletic rivals.

WHAT THEIR VOTES HAVE ACCOMPLISHED.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 29.—(By United Press).—"What women's votes have done and can do to better conditions in Illinois," was expected to be the principal subject for discussion by delegates to the state convention of the Illinois Equal Suffrage Association here today. All sorts of politicians have been invited to attend and tell the women what they think about suffrage.

The raising of a "liberty fund," for the purpose of gaining full suffrage for the women of Illinois will be proposed. The plan is to start getting money now so when the campaign for constitutional amendment, either through a constitutional convention or by direct amendment passed by the legislature, is at hand, the state suffrage association will be financially prepared to carry it through to a successful conclusion. Experience in other states where the campaign for the ballot has suffered through lack of funds has led the officials of the Illinois association to this forehanded move.

I. C. C. RULES AGAINST TRAVELING AS "LIVESTOCK"

State College, Oct. 29.—Plans of Penn State students to travel as "livestock" to the big football games to be played by the Blue and White on foreign fields have been rudely shattered by the Interstate Commerce Commission. It was ruled that despite the willingness of the students to travel in special express cars bedded down with straw, it was illegal for railroads to transport human beings under the special classification of "livestock." The students hoped to see the Harvard game next Saturday at a cost of about $7 for railroad fare, whereas the journey in Pullmans would tax them $25.

American Citizen Victim of Villista Hatred Against U. S.

Taken From Train and Summarily Slain by Villa's Henchman as Protest Against Recognition of Carranza

COMPANION ESCAPES A SIMILAR FATE

El Paso, Texas, Oct. 29.—(By United Press).—Charles Boone, an American cattleman of El Paso, was taken from a Mexican northwestern train at Guzman, Chihuahua, Mexico and shot to death. Boone's partner, James Welch, witnessed the murder and arrived here with the story early today. Welch said that Col. Hernandez, head of the Villa government, had Guzman had Boone executed by a firing squad without trial and presumably in retaliation for Carranza's recognition by the United States government.

Hernandez was said to have searched the train for other Americans threatening to kill any more to be found. Welch said he escaped by hiding in the locomotive with the American engine men. They confirmed Welch's story.

Brownsville, Texas, Oct. 29. (By United Press).—The 29th infantry ordered from Dallas to the Brownsville district last week received its assignment this border warfare today when a small detachment was attached twice by Mexicans between midnight and daylight. One American soldier was wounded. The Mexicans, although caught between two fires on the second attack, escaped without losses.

TREASURES IN VAULTS TO SAVE THEM FROM ZEPPELINS.

(By U. P. Staff Correspondent.) London, Oct. 6.—(By Mail).—Elaborate precautions against damage by Zeppelins to priceless treasures in the British museum have been taken.

The Elgin room, containing the great Elgin marbles, is closed to the public and the pedimental sculptures of the Parthenon have been removed to a strong room, specially constructed, in the basement. The Parthenon frieze, affixed to the walls, has been elaborately protected with sandbags. The noted Portland vase, the Rosetta stone and many other relics which can not be replaced, now repose in safety in the vaults of the great building.

The great lights that once shone brightly in the interior and exterior of the museum have been dimmed to a point where the building more properly resembles a gigantic tomb.

BOARD OF EDUCATION IN THE TEACHER'S FAVOR

Can the Teacher Make a School Boy Wear a Collar Against His Will?

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 27.—(By United Press).—May a school boy attend classes in summer without a collar and in winter sit muffled in a sweater if he chooses, or has a teacher the authority to dictate the attire of the pupils? This is the question that is expected to be decided by State Commissioner of Education Calvin M. Kendall today.

The Merchantville board of education has decided in favor of the teacher. It denied the petition of Frank V. L. Turner and his wife to dress their children as they saw fit. They were sent home because they didn't wear collars.

FRIDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 29, 1916

When a man has two dressed pigs on his conscience, the night of a pork chop is mighty apt to give him anything but an appetite.

If every Republican voter does his full duty next Tuesday, this county will be strictly in line for the Republican landslide scheduled for 1916.

The youthful new green dress of the Y. M. C. A. building is not quite satisfying to the eye, but it is decidedly an improvement over the former soiled drab.

We predict that Bowman's "Safety First" platform is going to be a boomerang. Quite a few voters believe in "safety first" and will therefore scratch Bowman.

Whatever the result, the vote for the suffrage amendment will reflect accurately the degree of enlightenment to which the people of Pennsylvania have attained. With machine politics and booze money out of sight, opposition to the amendment would be nil.

Most of the masculine opponents of suffrage argue the question in a circle. They go after it this way: "The women have never had the vote, and have been reasonably happy. Why the necessity of giving it to them now?" If the world depended upon that sort of progressive reasoning, we'd go backward so fast that the sun would soon rise out of the west.

PACIFISM AND PREPAREDNESS

As it is possible for alarmists to push our new and reasonable policy of "preparedness" in the direction of an undesirable extravagance, it is well for opponents of proposition to speak out, and certainly they have a right to be heard. But they should offer reason and common sense in lieu of idealistic dreams. Some of the "pacifists," including William Jennings Bryan, seem to show a total lack of appreciation of actual conditions and of the practical difficulties confronting their easy but hazardous scheme of waiting to prepare until war is at hand.

Mr. Bryan, for example, has confidently asserted that in the hour of need a million Americans would "spring to arms" in a day, forgetting that even so commendable an acrobatic feat would be virtually useless if there were no arms to "spring" to, or if the available arms failed to match those of the aggressor. Repeating an argument full of weak spots in the Commoner, he says: "It is not a question of defense—this country will defend itself if it is ever attacked—and if that time ever comes the common people will furnish the soldiers; those who fight when the country needs fighters and work when the country needs workers." We may readily grant that a desire to serve will not be lacking when the hour of need arrives, but even the "common people" will be practically helpless if there is lack of the right sort of guns, warships, and trained officers to lead and direct in the fighting. Without these, and confronted with a highly equipped and trained enemy, even the patriotic and brave might lose heart and, as in unprepared England, a Lusitania tragedy or the execution of a Miss Cavell might be necessary to stimulate volunteering. The history of the past fifteen months shows that the mere numbers and undeveloped military powers of a nation are a poor reliance in a great crisis.

As if realizing the weakness of their arguments when examined in the light of stubborn facts and startling conditions, the pacifists have been driven to seek support in the charge that the Navy league, for example, has been subsidized by the makers of armor plate. This is nothing but the old policy, so familiar in American politics of accusing your opponent of being bribed after finding it too difficult to show that his positions are those of a fool. For many months it has been asserted that the friends of the Allies in this country have been bribed from London and that the supporters of the German cause were financed from Berlin. Apparently it is no less inevitable that the advocates of national defense should meet the ridiculous charge of being bought by munition manufacturers, but such a last resort implies that the arguments of the pacifists are breaking down by rude contact with hard, immovable realities.

A wail of sorrow and discouragement is about the only refuse left the extreme pacifist, for the American people have been convinced that to make effective soldiers out of raw recruits is not now the simple matter it was in the less scientific past, that a nation called to war must have adequate modern equipment as well as a trained army, and that to build a great navy and create a serviceable army is not to plunge into abhorred militarism but merely to take prudent steps toward effective national defense.

Today's Geographic Study of the Great European War Zone

"These stirring military times will prove a liberal education to one of the most conservative of peoples, Russia's northern Finns—those of the provinces of the lake and forest districts neighboring Finland power—who have persisted in a stubborn doubting of civilization since Peter the Great built Russia's European window, Petrograd, to let its light in upon them," says a war primer just issued by the National Geographic Society, which gives a sketch of the religious beliefs of these taciturn hunters, trappers and fishermen. The statement continues:

"The foremost scepticism of these wilderness-dwellers is that of Christianity, which came to them through the Russians. Not that they are averse to the doctrines of the Orthodox Church, but, being an unimaginative, practical people, one bad harvest or meagre hunting season works more disastrously upon their faith than all the writings of the philosophers would ever do. Nominally, these northern Finns are Christians and Orthodox. In reality, most of them are practical opportunists in matters of belief."

"The old religion of the Finns, like the people themselves, was thoroughly practical, prosaic, frankly utilitarian. The superior powers in the world existed merely so that their people, the Finns, might convince them with argument or cajolery to make harvest plentiful and hunting good."

"Although Russian civilization has spread its influence through their lands, the old Finnish belief survives on in the fold of the Orthodox Church."

in its ancient characteristic of blunt, unvarnished utilitarianism. The Finn prays for good harvests, large catches, plentiful game, increase for his herds. He tells God in straightforward, unadorned, childlike phrases when he wants his grain to ripen or that his herd is about to increase and, therefore, needs special attention. He complains to God in the same confiding way when his taxes seem too heavy or when his property is stolen. He is not given to the transports of mysticism, nor to the tenacious or precise about articles of creed.

"He is concerned about averting the attentions of evil spirits and about discouraging unwelcome visits from his dead. So, although a Christian, he places food upon the new-made grave and exhorts its occupant to stay away."

"These northern Finns made no difficulty about accepting Christianity. When harvests failed, or other misfortunes overtook them, the naturally applied to the God of the Russians for assistance, and of convinced that He was the most potent, abandoned the old gods without regret. The following specimen prayer of a northern Christian Finn, addressed to the favorite Russian saint, St. Nicholas, illustrates his position."

"Look here, Nicholas-god! Perhaps my neighbor, little Michael, has been slandering me to you, or perhaps he will do so. If he does, don't believe him. I have done him no ill, and wish him none. He is a worthless boaster and a babble. He does not really honor you, and merely plays the hypocrite. But I honor you from my heart; and, behold, I place a taper before you."

GRAMPIAN

New York, Oct. 29.—Tomorrow's football schedule, taken as a whole, is a rather drab looking affair. It is, however, the lull before the storm that will break the following week when Yale and Princeton start the first game of the famous "Big Three."

The most exciting game tomorrow should be the Yale-Colgate game at New Haven, Yale, with McGraw gone, doesn't look like the Yale teams of old, despite the frantic efforts of the Blue mentors to whip a squad in shape that will preserve Yale prestige. In Colgate, Coach Larry Bankart has a scrappy, aggressive eleven which made its best showing of the season two weeks ago by administering a neat drubbing to the Army, 13 to 0. The quarrel at New Haven may turn out to be a real one unless Frank Hinkley has accomplished more with the Elis in the last two weeks than appears on the surface.

Harvard should not, on past performances, have a great deal of trouble with Penn State, although the State College athletes have not lost a game this season and number among their victims Pennsylvania. The recent discovery that there are as many points in Capt. Eddie Mahan's toe as there were in Charley Brinkley's has on the Crimson an enviable position in the dope sheet. Penn State to be a little weak on the defense which will be fatal to her as against the smashing backs of Percy Haughton.

Princeton will play a practice game with Williams, or should, if Speedy Rush's proteges continue to set the pace they have for the last fortnight. Williams is deplorably weak this season.

Cornell also has what should be a practice game with Virginia Tech.—not the Virginia that licked Yale Dartmouth should have a little trouble disposing of Amherst, and Uncle Sam's—wins the Army and Navy—also have easy games in Villanova and Bucknell.

For the first time in twenty-five years Emory and Henry College of Virginia has a foot ball team this fall.

The International league is said to be figuring on an invasion of Colonial league territory by placing teams in Hartford and Springfield.

Harvard is arranging to care for 50,000 foot ball enthusiasts at the Stadium when the Blue and Crimson meet in their annual gridiron battle next month.

Looks as if Boston is the right spot for Charley White to display his boxing wares. The Chicago lightweight has performed brilliantly in his recent bouts in the Hub.

Chicago has defeated Indiana's warriors 13 times in 14 years. To tackle the Maroons years after year, only to lose, shows that the Hoosiers are a game lot at least.

Johnny Evers, captain of the Braves, picked the Phillies to win the world's series, while his team-mate, "Rabbit" Maranville, pulled for the Red Sox to win the big series.

When the A. A. U. moguls gather in annual council in New York next month another attempt will be made to gain permission for women to swim in sanctioned competitions.

Alleged stalling in bouts and failure to keep engagements have put Ad Wolgast, Johnny Kilbane and other prominent boxers in bad with the Wisconsin boxing commission.

Despite a poor year for boxing in Australia, Jeff Smith, the Jersey middleweight who has just returned from "down there," says he brought home 20,000 good dollars.

Seattle has been admitted to the Pacific Coast Hockey League. The league will start its season with four teams—Portland, Seattle, Vancouver and Victoria.

Jim Coffey was showing considerable class in the ring until he ran into one of Frank Moran's "hope destroyers." Now the Dublin giant will have to show that he is still there with the slaps and ducks in order to get on in the big bouts.

Several major league baseball stars, who are also crack trap shooters, are to tour the country giving exhibitions of trap shooting. The pastimers, headed by Eddie Plank, Chief Bender and Harry Davis, plan to start from Boston next month.

Four no-hit games were staged by the Federal league during the season just closed. The games in which the losers failed to get a solitary bingle, with the winning pitchers, were as follows: Allen, of Pittsburgh, vs. St. Louis; Hendrix, of Chicago, vs. Pittsburgh; Main, of Kansas City, vs. Buffalo, and Davenport, of St. Louis, vs. Chicago.

THE GERMAN SIDE OF FIGHTING IN RAVISHED POLAND

Evacuation of Kowno Filled With German Prisoners—Old
Men and Women Helpless

U. P. Staff Correspondent With the Army of the Kaiser Tells of the Condition of the City.

BY CARL W. ACKERMAN.
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Kowno, Russia, Sept. 27.—(By United Press Staff Correspondent.)—The evacuation of the Russian retreat (here) is said to be nearly 2,000,000 refugees. I got a glimpse of what a terrible scene a retreat is, at the railroad station last night and in the city today.

For a while the Russian retreat was so rapid that the fleeing civilians could not "keep up" with them—especially the Jews—are returning to their property homes.

Kowno must have been evacuated suddenly and in a panic. The stores are in the most dilapidated condition and the store-keepers and their families who have returned, stand about in their empty, dirty, destitute shells, broken-hearted.

When we arrived at the station a freight train came in bearing wounded Germans from the fighting line. In several of the box cars were returning refugees. Bare footed women were about in straw—their black and white colored shawls drawn tightly about them—frightened and cold.

The things they brought with them added another unbelievable aspect to the general destitution. I saw a woman with barely enough clothes to cover her body bringing back a sewing machine. A boy and his father carried a sack of possessions and a white kitten.

In the city there remain the pitiful old women and men who could not undergo the hardships of miles and miles of traveling by foot. They had to stay during the bombardment of the town, while the shells flew about like black birds down the streets and over the city. No cellars or bomb-proof trenches hid them. Their sufferings must have been terrible.

Today they are trekking about the city, bare footed and leaning on old, old hand-made canes. Sunday they were in the churches, crawling about the altars for hours, silently repeating prayers and walking up to kiss the cross of the feet on the gold statue of Christ.

Some were kneeling or sitting in the deserted confessionals. I have seen but one Russian priest in Kowno and there are 25,000 people here.

Along the stone cobbled streets, ramble the peasants' wagons—perhaps a mother and her family lying in the straw and the giant peasant walking along beside. Further back comes a family group driving the cow. Everywhere there are German soldiers and groups of Russian prisoners marching from one part of the town to another.

Large auto trucks—in constant communication with the front—hurry through the city. Big touring cars bearing officers are everywhere.

Such is Kowno today—a city formerly of 30,000 inhabitants exclusive of the garrison for the nine forts. To the visitor, Kowno appears like a Southern town with but three of four palatial residences and hundreds and hundreds of negro huts.

The buildings, aside from their wrecked appearance, are poorly constructed and badly furnished.

The city was damaged in two sections by the bombardment. The fronts of the houses on some streets bear evidence of machine gun fire.

The wall of the church across from city hall are splashed with blood and the heavy iron fence around the monument is split in some places as fine as kindling wood. Many large buildings were destroyed by fire.

Warnings of danger from cholera and fever are posted in all public places and the inhabitants and soldiers are forbidden to drink unboiled water or eat fresh fruit.

The sewage system of Kowno is bad. Winter has not yet set in and flies are everywhere. In the hotels and restaurants which the Germans have reopened, one eats with one hand and chases flies with the other.

Beer books and cigars follow the German flag. Beer is brought down here by boat over the Memel river and books and newspapers come by every post. The city is also restocked with cigars and cigarettes, for the fleeing Russians didn't leave enough behind to supply their abandoned soldiers.

Meat and wheat are plentiful and the inhabitants bake their own white bread, a luxury even in German today. The city appears to have more than its share of wounded and every available large building is turned into a hospital.

Dr. Prussian said the Russians abandoned 1,200 severe cases, leaving only a few Red Cross nurses to care for them. A Russian doctor captured early in the war has been brought here to take charge of this hospital.

Fashion Hints By Margaret Mason

BY MARGARET MASON.
(Written For The United Press.)

Since Mrs. Galt
Has called a halt
On Paris modes awhile,
We now will go
By B. & O
To Baltimore for style.

New York, Oct. 29.—Baltimore is a fine place for frocks and oysters. Like the succulent bivalves, the models turned out by the dressmakers of the Maryland city are apt to be either much shirred or scalloped. None of the sartorial efforts have been panned, however, although panners are much in evidence on many.

Although the suit and afternoon gowns ordered at Baltimore by Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt, the prospective first lady of the land, are two of "Bolling green" and one of seal brown, it is a safe bet that her Baltimore trossseau will not be complete without one frock of oyster white.

Mrs. Galt has evinced a preference for Georgetown crepe since her green and brown afternoon gowns are combinations of this soft, clinging material with either taffeta or chiffon. Her blouses also are crepe Georgetown and indeed not only the first but every lady of the land seems to have a penchant for this fabric. It is being utilized every place and for everything where once the chiffon reigned supreme.

There is hardly an afternoon model for the season that does not show transparent sleeves of the crepe Georgetown; and particularly in the wide bell sleeves banded in fur is this fabric charming.

It has even crept closer to feminine hearts as airily fashioned undergarments, and as nighties, chemises, petticoats, Princess slips and combinations it adapts itself enchantingly.

While on the delicate subject of Georgetown underwear I want to describe with bated breath a sensational set of intimate garments on display in a Fifth Avenue shop window.

The complete set consisted of a chemise of very wide and very cobwebby black net lace hung straight from shoulder straps of inch wide black satin ribbon, a pair of long lace pantalets on a black ribbon band, a brassiere of black satin ribbon and lace; and a petticoat, in case the weather should be chill, is permissible to be held in reserve.

It is like the chemise, just a full fall of this wide lace gathered on a black satin ribbon around the waist. This shop window of inky, slinky garments comes in for a good share of black looks.

Indeed, to keep it dark seems about the best thing to do with this modern lingerie set of ebony hue.

This same shop is offering another sensation in the shape of high velvet shoes buttoned with little filigree ball buttons of gilt. One pair is of burnt orange velvet and the pair of silk hose to match has a cunning little fat Chinaman embroidered on the ankle.

Burnt orange, by the way, is a very popular color for seasonable evening gowns. Wondrous velvet ones of burnt orange are heavily embroidered in silver and combined with silver lace. Dark fur bandings are also stunning combined with the burnt velvet. Gorgeous evening mantles of this combination are as effective as any of the other vivid velvets not shown in the voluminous garments.

I glimpsed a petite brunette actress successfully exploiting the burnt orange coloring on Fifth Avenue one warm day last week. She was without a wrap and her full short skirted dress was of orange and olive green figured chiffon made with a tight-boned bodice laced with an orange cord over a guimpe of burnt orange crepe Georgetown with full bell sleeves. With this she wore high buttoned shoes of olive green kid. It was a case of a pair of green kids, but no trio, if you please.

I wonder if this outfit came from Baltimore.

SERBIAN NATIONAL HYMN.

God of Justice! Thou, have saved us
When in deepest bondage
cast,
Hear Thy Serbian children's voices,
Be our help as in the past.
With Thy mighty hand sustain us,
Still our rugged pathway trace;
God, our Hope, protect and cherish
Serbian crown and Serbian race!

Bind in closest links our kindred,
Teach the love that will not fail.
May the loathed field of discord
Never in our ranks prevail,
Let the golden fruits of union
Our young tree of freedom grace;
God, our Master, guide and prosper
Serbian crown and Serbian race!

On our sepulchre of ages
Breaks the resurrection morn,
From the slough of direst slavery
Serbia anew is born.
Through five hundred years of duration
We have knelt before Thy face,
All our kin, O God, deliver!
Thus entreates the Serbian race.

The Stuff that makes the motors go

When weather forecasts say "colder," watch out for rising barometer of gas consumption. That is, unless you use Atlantic Gasoline. It will give you practically the same number of miles per gallon as you got last August.

This is the gas to feed in all weathers. Its qualities are regulated so as to insure instant carburetion at low temperatures.

ATLANTIC GASOLINE

Atlantic Gasoline is made from the finest crude oil that flows. It's clean as filtered water. It leaves a minimum of carbon. It saves you expensive carburetor troubles, because carburetors on a steady diet of Atlantic Gas seldom need adjusting. Every gallon is exactly like the last—its uniform "boiling point" is a definite standard.

Be sure you say Atlantic Gasoline—it puts pep in your motor. All good garages sell Atlantic Gasoline and Atlantic trucks and tanks deliver any quantity, anywhere, any time.

POLARINE keeps upkeep down

Atlantic Polarine will feed at zero weather as freely as at high temperatures. It keeps cylinder walls covered with a film of oil—they don't get parched when you use Polarine.

75TH BIRTHDAY FOR "PRIVATE JOE"

Bloomington, Oct. 28.—Joseph W. Fifer, famed as "Private Joe" and governor of Illinois for two terms, received many congratulations at his home here today on the occasion of his seventy-fifth birthday. Governor Fifer was born in Staunton, Va., October 26, 1840. His father, who was a stone and brick mason, moved to this county in 1857, when he purchased land which Joseph helped him to improve, assisting also in the manufacturing and laying of brick. In 1861 he enlisted as a private in the 23rd Illinois Infantry, and in the assault on Jackson Miss., in 1863, a mine ball passed entirely through his body. After the war he entered Illinois Wesleyan University and graduated in 1868. The following year he was admitted to the bar, and in 1871 was elected corporation counsel of Bloomington. Later he served four years in the state senate and in 1888 was elected to the governorship on the Republican ticket.
